Performance Summary

Christine led content strategy and production for the entire project, navigating two challenging issues (consultant bio shortfall I-007 and editorial review bottleneck I-009) with grace. Designed and ran the tiered launch approach for consultant bios that turned a potential failure into a launchable result. Delivered all marketing copy with strong brand voice consistency. Most growth happened in stakeholder management — Christine entered the project quiet and ended it confidently directing consultant SMEs and Marketing review cycles.

Key Contributions

- Authored marketing pages, services pages, and case studies (20 case studies total).
- Designed and ran the tiered consultant bio launch (top 50 at launch, batched additions post-launch).
- Established editorial standards and brand voice guide.
- Managed Marketing Lead and consultant SME review cycles.

Demonstrated Strengths

- Brand voice consistency — Marketing Lead's review pass-through rate on her copy was the highest on the team.
- Adaptability — when the editorial review queue bottlenecked, Christine restructured the workflow with Marketing Lead rather than pushing through.
- Stakeholder coordination — managed the consultant bio process across 500+ stakeholders, which is a hard distributed-stakeholder problem.

Growth Areas / Development Recommendations

- Earlier escalation of bottlenecks — the editorial queue pile-up was visible 1–2 weeks before Christine surfaced it (LL-008). Earlier escalation would have meant earlier mitigation.
- Delegation comfort — Christine personally reviewed every piece of content; on a larger project she'll need to delegate first-pass review to a junior content editor.

Recommendation for Future Assignments

Recommend for the next content-heavy firm project. Christine is ready for senior content strategy work and would benefit from managing a junior writer or content coordinator on the next project to build her delegation skills. Eligible for the $900 portion of the project completion bonus.
